DETAILED ACTION

Applicants' terminal disclaimer dated 10/31/2005 has been received and entered. Claims 170-192 are remain pending in the application.

The terminal disclaimer filed on 10/31/2005 disclaiming the terminal portion of any patent granted on this application which would extend beyond the expiration date of the US Patent No. 6,724,452 has been reviewed and is accepted. The terminal disclaimer has been recorded.

Claims 170-192 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The references of record neither disclose nor make obvious a liquid crystal display (LCD) device comprising a combination of various elements as claimed more specifically a first substrate including first domain regulating means for regulating azimuths of orientations of liquid crystal molecules, a second substrate including second domain regulating means for also regulating the azimuths of the orientations of the liquid crystal molecules, wherein when vertically seen to the substrates, the first domain regulating means includes first line portions and second line portions, the second domain regulating means includes third line portions and fourth line portions as set forth in claims 170 and 178 and/or in claim 183; and/or a first bent shaped protrusion on the inner of the first substrate, a second bent shaped protrusion on the inner of the second substrate, wherein the first protrusion and the second protrusion are arranged alternatively in plane view as set forth in claims 188.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue
